

In My Life” Activity

“Death ends a life, not a relationship.”

-- Morrie Schwartz, Tuesdays with Morrie

“In My Life” -- the Beatles

There are places I'll remember
All my life though some have changed
Some forever not for better
Some have gone and some remain
All these places have their moments
With lovers and friends I still can recall
Some are dead and some are living
In my life I've loved them all

But of all these friends and lovers
There is no one compares with you
And these memories lose their meaning
When I think of love as something new
Though I know I'll never lose affection
For people and things that went before
I know I'll often stop and think about them
In my life I love you more

Though I know I'll never lose affection
For people and things that went before
I know I'll often stop and think about them
In my life I love you more
In my life I love you more

Today you will be listening to the song that reflects some of the same themes we have been discussing. Allow yourself the revelry of a memory vacation. Think of someone in your life who is or was important to you but is no longer in your life as much as he or she may have been. As you listen to the song, make a mind movie of the memories you have of that person.

After thinking about the person, consider Morrie’s comment: “Death ends a life, not a relationship.” State and support your opinion concerning that aphorism. Use your personal experience from the memory vacation for support. Write at least a ½ page. Turn it in OR email it.
